

Best online video-sharing websites

Rank	Website	Price when rated:	Video/ audio quality	Ease of upload	Embedded player design	File size/ length limits	Comments
1	Blip.tv Beta	Free	Superior/ Very Good	Very Good	Very Good	100MB/none	Web video connoisseurs will like Blip.tv's superior video feed quality and optional revenue sharing.
2	DivX Stage6 Beta	Free	Very Good/ Very Good	Good	Superior	2GB/none	Though its use involves a few extra steps, Stage6 supports high-def video and has a well-designed Web video player.
3	Brightcove Beta (Personal)	Free	Good/ Very Good	Very Good	Superior	100MB/none	Brightcove provides professional video management tools and a variety of revenue-sharing programs beyond opt-in advertising.
4	Revver	Free	Good/ Very Good	Very Good	Superior	100MB/none	Using Revver is one of the easiest ways to make money from your video content. Its compact QuickTime files look better than its Flash conversions.
5	Veoh	Free	Good/ Very Good	Very Good	Very Good	none	Veoh impressed with a large and easy-to-use embedded player and its useful VeohTV desktop software.
6	Microsoft Soapbox Beta on MSN Video	Free	Good/ Very Good	Very Good	Very Good	100MB/none	Well designed and syncs with MSN Messenger. Unlike rival embedded video players, it has no full-screen mode.
7	YouTube	Free	Fair/ Very Good	Very Good	Good	100MB/10 min.	Its video quality isn't the greatest, but YouTube can't be beat for drawing the widest possible audience.
8	Vimeo	Free	Good / Very Good	Very Good	Very Good	250MB/none	Easy-to-use Vimeo lets you make your original file - sized up to 250MB - available for download along with a streaming Flash version. Unfortunately, 250MB is also your weekly upload limit.
9	Jumpcut Beta	Free	Good/ Very Good	Very Good	Good	100MB/none	Uniquely remix- oriented, Jumpcut makes it fun to mash up videos, music, and photos from yourself or others.
10	MySpaceTV Beta	Free	Good/ Very Good	Very Good	Good	100MB/none	Best for those seeking video uploads to their MySpace blog or profile without the need for other sites. Others are better served elsewhere.

EXPERT ADVICE YOU CAN TRUST

PC ADVISOR